Customer: Which other companies use you? Chatbot: We don't share specific client details, but Customate serves different sized businesses across many industries. We have a base product that can be tailored to the needs of every company. Is there a particular feature or use case you'd like to explore further?

Customer: How do you compare with the competition?

Chatbot: We think about our competition on two levels.

First, there are traditional chatbots. In reality, these work more like a guided FAQ section, and not chats. The process tends to be stressful and often confusing. The percentage of users who successfully find the information they're looking for is incredibly low. So much so that some companies use it to start a conversation between humans via email. You can read more about the problems in this link: www.customate.ai/blog/traditional-vs-ai

Second, there's the use of artificial intelligence in these types of applications. This is an innovative alternative that allows for human-like communication, adaptable to the end user's preferred information search process.

Within this category, our chatbot stands out by offering exceptionally accurate and fast responses. Our model is more flexible and easier to use. Also, we charge the lowest price among the biggest competitors in the space.
